

An Experience With Being Different

Think of an LGBTQ youth, either one you had or currently have on your caseload. Name an experience when that youth felt very different from others.

Try to assume that youth's total behavior. (What was the youth doing, thinking, experiencing emotionally, and experiencing physically during the experience?)

Has the youth chosen any different aspects of behavior since having that experience?